

Turning trash to timbre

Ever dreamed of achieving that ancient cigar-box sound you've heard on records older than you, but couldn't afford those vintage instruments?

It's time to get your hands dirty, 'coz digging up some trash is all it takes.

This mighty fine four-string wonder combines the best parts from the dumpster for that authentic cigar-box sound: a wooden body saturated in Presidential Vodka for royal resonance, carefully aged floor skirting for the tense treble, jazzy & trashy hardware for some raging rumble – and rusted strings played with a bottle neck for that gliding groove.
